June 2007

The French Trip was to Luc Sur Mer in Normandy. A small group attended a motorcycle rally with a run around the local countryside. Much wine was drunk which seems the main reason for going. They came back with another large cup again this year. Thankfully there were no bike problems this year.

The midweek run was to the Tangmere Aviation Museum. The museum has exhibits from the second world war fighter station and the secret trips made to France by SOE agents. There are several airspeed record aircraft from the post war period. We had an unscheduled early lunch stop on the way down when one bike broke down outside a pub.

The Midsummer Mystery Run attracted few riders, but those who turned out had a trip through some quiet Buckinghamshire villages that most did not know existed. Lunch was at the White Horse in Forest Hill. The theme for this year was Christmas. As Midsummer's Day is the furthest from Christmas Day we went in search of as many Saint Nicholas's Churches as we could find.
